Special Committee Making Gains In Combating School Drug Abuse

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Drug abuse among America's youth: During the late 1960s, it was a matter of intense national concern — and then, it seems, we forgot about it for a while.

But if it lost our attention, the problem did not disappear. Recent national statistics show that among junior high and high school students, 19 percent are "problem drinkers"; more than 16 percent use marijuana regularly; another 1 percent choose another drug for regular use.

In 1984, drug and alcohol abuse is an issue percolating to the surface of our national consciousness once again. And not even a comfortable suburban community noted for its fine schools escapes the statistics.

According to a 1980 Massachusetts Department of Mental Health study among Andover students, about half of the secondary school population have experimented with alcohol and marijuana; four students in ten use alcohol; three in ten use marijuana. Drugs and alcohol are, the study concluded, an "integral part" of growing up in Andover.

"It is a people issue," Brenda O'Brien, health education coordinating teacher for the Andover school department, said this week. "It's very important that we look at it as a people issue, and not just as a student issue."

Fighting drug abuse among students is a responsibility the schools must share with parents and the community, O'Brien said. "Schools are part of the community. And it is the schools' ultimate responsibility to give children the opportunity to find their fullest possible potential."

Toward that end, the Andover Committee on Substance Use and Abuse was formed in January 1982. Co-chaired by O'Brien and Community Services Director Joan Pearson, the committee is made up of parents and students, teachers and school staffers, townspeople and social service professionals.

What is a drug? The committee defines it as "any chemical substance that produces physical, mental, emotional or behavioral changes in the user." And drug abuse is the use of any drug — legal or illegal — that causes "physical, mental, emotional or social harm to the user," or those who care about the user.

Alcohol is quite definitely a drug, O'Brien notes. "It's just more socially acceptable" than narcotics or hallucinogens. (Nicotine and caffeine are other socially-accepted drugs; like cocaine and amphetamines, they are stimulants.)

The committee began drawing up a battle plan against drug abuse more than two years ago — and it has seen some signs of victory in the schools during the past year, O'Brien said.

"A lot has happened in a year's time," the teacher said. "There are many components, in the schools and in the community, and all of these groups have reinforced each other. And what we've done has been done well."

Last spring, the committee inaugurated a program of drug abuse prevention and intervention in every Andover school. Seven teams of school administrators, teachers, counselors, nurses and community representatives — called ASK (Assessment, Support, Knowledge) Teams — were established; one at each of the four elementary schools and two junior high schools, and one at Andover High.

The program also includes a community team, made up of liaisons from the seven school-based teams as well as other community representatives. The total ASK program is coordinated by Andover High staffer Mike Marcoux.

The ASK Teams share four major goals, O'Brien said, to develop a "receptive climate" in the schools for early intervention; to help prevent drug abuse among students; to help students who are having problems with drug abuse; and to offer support to students who choose not to use and abuse drugs.

A "key secret" to the ASK Team approach, O'Brien said, is that while every school is working toward the same major goals, each is following its own path. "Each school has its own goals, and they are different in different (school) buildings," the teacher explained.

The ASK Teams were trained last winter by the Johnson Institute of Minneapolis, Minn., an educational consulting firm. The Johnson Institute brought with it the ASK Team concept, a model program that has been successful in the Midwest and on the West Coast, O'Brien said. Andover is the only community in this area currently using such a program.

A teacher who suspects a student may be having a drug problem can refer that student to the school ASK Team. "It takes the weight of diagnostic responsibility off the teacher," O'Brien said. "Once the teacher makes the referral, it's the responsibility of the team to see if something is going on."

Teachers are provided with an early intervention referral form, which asks the teacher to observe and record the behavior of a troubled student. The checklist format includes questions on school attendance, physical problems (weight change, sleeping in class), academic performance, disruptive behavior (crying, nervousness, sudden outbursts), social behavior (depression, defensiveness, withdrawal), and behavior problems (theft, vandalism, fighting).

What happens when the ASK Team receives a referral form on a student? First, the team sends out referral forms to every other teacher who works with the student, to get a "more rounded picture" of the student's possible problem, O'Brien says. All forms are returned to the team within three days, and are reviewed at the team's weekly meeting.

Next, a counselor meets with the student for a preliminary assessment. And if the

Siegel Graduation Speaker

Andover High School seniors won't have to turn on their radios to hear Matt Siegel on Friday, June 8, because the FM radio disc jockey from KISS 108 will deliver the annual graduation message to the class at their outdoor ceremony.

Also at the 5 p.m. graduation, at Lovely Field, two student speakers will address the class of 1984. Maura King and Elaine Scanlon were chosen this week to represent their class.

Both students are active in school events. This year Scanlon presided over both the Student Advisory Council and Students Against Driving Drunk, better known as SADD. Scanlon was also a varsity field hockey player, a member of the School Cabinet, a homeroom representative and on the staff of the school paper.

This year King was the president of the National Honor Society. She was also the vice-president of the Andover Music and Drama Guild, a member of the yearbook staff, and a representative to the annual Law Day conference at Lawrence District Court.

To Install League Officers

The 63rd annual meeting of the League of Women Voters of Andover will be held Wednesday, May 23, at Christ Church in Andover beginning with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. The business meeting will convene at 8 p.m.

The meeting is open to the public. Those members and friends who will attend the dinner must make reservations and pre-payment to Linn Anderson (Mrs. Thomas Prezkop), 93 Abbot St., no later than Monday.

The meeting will include election of officers and directors and adoption of the budget for the 1984-85 year. Local program suggestions will include some rewording in present positions recommended by units focusing on Andover. Also open for discussion and vote will be three possible studies on land use relating to wetland regulations, multifamily zoning, the central business district and land banking. Another possible study would involve expansion of the recreation position by studying the Department of Community Services, its goals, structure, responsibilities, finances, facilities and programs.

Batson Accepted In Who's Who

Michael D. Batson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Batson of Andover, a student at North Adams State College, has been accepted to membership in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Batson received the award at the annual Honors Luncheon from Dr. Rodger Summers, vice president.

A senior, majoring in business administration with a concentration in accounting and a minor in economics, he has served as music director of WJJW, campus radio station, is a member of the Accounting Society and individual enrichment tutor in the Learning Skills Center.

Town Land May Go On Auction Block

A number of tiny parcels of land scattered around town may soon be put on the auction block, the town manager told selectmen last week.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony last Monday said he has identified nine town-owned lots around town, totalling only five or six acres, that some townspeople have shown an interest in purchasing. The lots are too small to build upon, he said.

Mahony said he is circulating a list of the parcels through town and school departments to see whether Andover might want to hold onto some of the parcels — for future use as playing fields, for instance, or as conservation land.

Once that process is finished, he'll seek the selectmen's approval of a list of parcels to be auctioned — possibly at the board's next meeting Monday night, the manager indicated. He added that he's looking forward to serving as the auctioneer himself. "It should be kind of fun," Mahony said.

Parking Problems At Field

Spectators at Little League games at South School continue to pose a parking problem around the school playing field, the selectmen learned last week.

Thomas Powers of the Council on Aging told the board that despite No Parking signs posted along Woburn Street, cars still line the street during baseball games. Besides impeding traffic, the cars pose a danger to children who dart out from behind parked cars and run into the street, Powers said.

Selectman William Dalton suggested that ticketing illegally-parked cars may well solve the problem. To date, police officers have simply told drivers to move the cars, which hasn't discouraged scofflaws from returning later.

On the brighter side of youth athletics, Selectman Charles Wesson last week noted that he was happy to see little soccer players from the youngest levels of Andover's youth soccer leagues using the bowling green in Shawsheen Square. The green hasn't been used as a playing field for quite some time.

Located on North Main Street between Balmoral and Haverhill streets, the green "makes for a nice little setting," Wesson said, as evidenced by the "smiles and joy all over the place" he saw at a recent soccer match.

Committee Seeking Volunteers

The Community Child Care committee needs volunteers to help with its comprehensive needs assessment survey. The project involves making telephone calls to a list of about ten families with children under age 13. A total of 400 families will be surveyed. It is hoped that this survey can be completed by the end of May. Those interested should contact the Department of Community Services.

Gift Of Woodlands Received

A gift of woodlands in Shawsheen Village will be deeded to the town, with the selectmen's approval.

The board last week voted unanimously to accept a gift of about two acres of open land from the American Heart Association.

The parcel, located behind the former Raytheon plant on Haverhill Street, consists of "very small, wooded lots" that are too small to build upon, Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the board.

Once the deed has been signed, the land will be permanently preserved as town conservation land.

Roger's Dell — Polishing A Gem

By Marilyn Casanave

Some Andover townspeople have been polishing a diamond-in-the-rough to add to the natural jewels in the town's string of conservation lands. Roger's Dell is the latest gem emerging from the debris of decades. So far about 75 volunteers have worked to clear the small lot at the corner of Lupine Road and School Street of all evidence of its abused and neglected past. The project is sponsored by the Andover Conservation Commission and the Appalachian Mountain Club. All the nitty-gritty details are under the direction of Louise Van Everen, well-known in Andover as a champion of nature preservation. Her clean-up committee includes Joan Buschmann, Marilyn Lewis, Alice Harris, Doris Newton, Barbara Coffman, Marilyn Casanave, Kave Hawkins and Phil Wormword.

Since March the committee has planned and implemented the beautification of the dell. Now, with the transformation well underway, the committee invites all townsfolk to a celebration on May 28. People are encouraged to come at noon with a picnic lunch and enjoy the little dell in its latest stage of rehabilitation.

Those who experience its budding charm will find it hard to imagine the dell scenery at the opposite extreme, as a full-fledged dump.

As community beautification projects go, Roger's Dell surely has a history with more colorful details, more discouraging setbacks and more triumphant victories than most. Its identity can be traced to archaic periods when Indians camped there and fished in its brook. In 1646 the brook itself was named for Indian Roger who retained fishing rights for his people when Andover was purchased from the tribe. (The brook was finally rerouted after several floods so that today's stream is lazy and more swampy than brook-like.) As Andover became settled, this piece of land was a part of several succeeding homesteads. Owners in the story include Alice French, Dr. Mary Harris, the Coburn family and George Smith. In 1928 George's sister, Mary Byers Smith, donated this parcel of land to the Village Improvement Society, thus fulfilling the hopes of the society that no one would ever "place upon that corner an oil station or... refreshment stand," as one of the AVIS annual reports reads.

From the start AVIS found that the temptation to dump there was too great for the public, despite signs and fines. A beautification contest in 1933 inspired AVIS' Melvin Barnes to transform the dismal dump into a delightful dell, thereby winning an award for AVIS. The discouraging fact is, however, that soon the dell had returned to an unsightly junk heap. In fact, for 25 years it attracted only those seeking to dump and destroy. It is no wonder that AVIS despaired of ever redeeming the land and donated it to the town for a parking area. Indeed, the tiny open space seemed destined to decline even further when, in 1966, Harold Rafton rescued it for a nobler purpose and it was placed under the jurisdiction of the conservation commission.

Resource Booklet Compiled

The Andover Community Committee on Substance Use and Abuse has compiled a comprehensive resource booklet to help individuals of all ages make informed choices about alcohol and drug use in their lives. The booklet includes drug information, related public law, school policies and a directory of support service providers.

These booklets will be made available through all school offices, the Department of Community Services, Town Hall and Memorial Hall Library. Printing and distribution costs have been funded via a grant from the Andona Society. Program donations have been received from Hughes Pharmacy, West Elementary P.T.O., the Andover Education Improvement Association, Department of Social Services and two anonymous sources.

The community is invited to join the committee in an open forum in the senior center, first floor rear, Administration Center, on Thursday, May 17, to explore future prevention intervention programs in Andover. Possible projects include establishing a teen center, implementing Project Charlie, an elementary prevention curriculum taught by volunteers, and/or identifying "safe homes" for teens in crisis. Community input, recommendations and support are sought.

Alcohol, Drug Abuse Discussed

The Sanborn students and their parents were invited to a drug prevention discussion, sponsored by the P.T.O. and through the efforts of Ted and Colleen Georgian, 11 Lovejoy Road, Andover, on April 26.

The program featured Dr. Donald McLean, a Winchester pediatrician and "Epidemic," a film on the sad facts of drug and alcohol addiction in young people.

Dr. McLean led the discussion involving students and parents throughout the evening.

Hospital Emergency Room Initiates Pilot Program

Lawrence General Hospital's busy emergency department is comprised of an emergency trauma facility and an adjacent ambulatory care suite. To better utilize the facility, decrease waiting time and make non-urgent patient care more convenient, the emergency department will initiate a three-month pilot program for providing non-urgent patient care.

The pilot program, which began Monday, May 7, for patients with routine, non-urgent medical problems, will be held Monday through Friday from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday morning. Patients wishing to take advantage of the referral service should use the hospital's emergency entrance.

Patients with non-urgent concerns are referred to the specially staffed and equipped ambulatory care area of the emergency department. Care to non-urgent patients is provided at the stated times rather than cause them to wait while trauma, emergency and very urgent patients are receiving priority attention.

The hospital, as the designated area trauma center, experiences more than 57,000 visits per year to its emergency department. Patients with non-life-threatening or non-urgent conditions are often asked to wait while the more seriously ill or injured are treated.

The results of the pilot program will be helpful in evaluating the need for a specially equipped annex to the emergency department to house this important level of patient care.

Patients with emergency problems and urgent medical symptoms will be seen and treated immediately, as has always been the case, in the trauma and medical care rooms of the emergency department 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

German Visitor Finds Challenge Of America Rewarding

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The challenge of experiencing a foreign culture for one year and improving his grasp of a foreign language brought Gero Feldmann from Germany to Andover last fall.

After almost nine months at Andover High School, Gero says the experience has been all that he expected. His English has improved — and he thinks he'd like to make this country his home someday.

Gero, who celebrated his seventeenth birthday this month, came to the United States as part of an international student exchange program offered by the American Institute for Foreign Studies. The A.I.F.S. program is smaller than the more well-known American Field Service (A.F.S.) program, he notes.

The student is in the senior class at Andover High, and lives at the Chandler Road home of the Rev. Dennis and Karin Kohl and their three young children. (The Rev. Kohl is pastor of the Faith Lutheran Church in Andover.)

He is bright and self-assured, his English is flawless, and spoken with the merest hint of an accent. In Germany, he lives in a suburb of Hamburg with his parents, Hartmut and Marlene Feldmann, and attends school at Gymnasium Lohbruegge. He will be a junior there next year, he says, explaining that German students attend public school for 13 years, one year longer than American students.

Gero chose to come to the United States because "I knew it a little," he says, after vacationing here with his parents for several summers. (He has traveled through Florida, California, Nevada, Arizona and Louisiana, as well as Puerto Rico and Mexico.) And he has an American uncle, who is now living in Santo Domingo.

Six years of studying the English language (the minimum requirement in German schools) has prepared him well for his stay here, and Gero says his English has improved during the past few months — one of his goals for the year.

He arrived in New York City last August with a group of German students in the A.I.F.S. program. The group spent a few days in the city, where they attended seminars meant to prepare them for life in the U.S.A., before scattering across the country to join their host families.

Living with the Kohl family has been "a nice experience," Gero says; Dennis and Karin Kohl have become "my second parents," and he intends to stay in touch with them after he leaves here late next month.

The A.I.F.S. students will return to New York City in August before flying back to Germany, but Gero plans to meet his parents at his uncle's home in the Caribbean and spend six weeks there before returning home.

Andover High is "a nice school," Gero says. The subjects taught here are "not really different" from those he studies at home (his favorite subjects at AHS are mathematics and history; his best class is computer class), but he finds the work easier. "That's the reason why I'm a senior here."

The school day is quite different in Germany, he explains. "In Germany, you won't travel from room to room — you stay in one room and the teachers come to your class. You stay the whole day with all the same people." (Until the tenth grade, he adds, when the system becomes the same as ours.)

And at home, all students in one grade attend the same classes, instead of splitting up into different groups. Students from different grades are never found in the same classroom, as they sometimes are here, where a sophomore and senior can elect to take the same class.

You get to know people better in Germany," Gero notes, "because you're with them all day long."

German students have "more freedom in school, but still they learn more," Gero believes. "In Germany, if you walk around or eat in class, nobody would care — as long as you listen."

The German school day ends a bit earlier than the American one, at 1:15 p.m., when students head home for a warm mid-day meal. (Dinner is usually something light and cold, Gero says.) Lunch is not served at school.

The student then faces three or four hours of homework each evening. Here, Gero rarely has more than an hour's worth of homework, and he usually completes it during free periods at school. "Normally I don't have to study at home."

He's detected little difference between Andover High students and their German counterparts, mostly because in Germany, "they all behave American," Gero says with a laugh. "They're people like me. They might look a little different, but they're still the same."

High school high fashion here is not what it is in Germany, he says. "At home they're more into tight stuff. Here kids wear comfortable stuff, but it's not very different."

How has he found life in America? Gero has concluded that "the German way of life is more relaxed." But the "major point" of difference between our two cultures is definitely food, he adds.

We don't eat as much greasy food like in America. We eat more vegetables." (McDonalds and Burger King can, however, be found in Hamburg.) His favorite foods at home are Italian and Greek ("I don't like really German food, maybe sauerbraten.") Here, he says without hesitation, it's Big Macs.

Gero has "nothing bad" to say about the people of Andover. "They're people, like in Germany." He does, however, have one complaint about the town.

The only thing I don't like here is that you don't have good public transportation. At home, I can take a bus or a train everywhere. Here, I always have to ask, 'Can you give me a ride?'

During his stay here, Gero has enjoyed traveling through New England and to Canada. He's joined the AFS Club and a church youth group, and likes to watch television (read: a little), and meet new people — just going out and having fun.

German exchange student Gero Feldmann works on a homework assignment

What he's missed most about Germany is his hobby: flying glider airplanes every weekend with his father, a licensed glider pilot. "The A.I.F.S. program hasn't allowed me to take up that hobby here," Gero says, "but it would be too risky."

Gero would like to complete his education in the United States, attending Harvard or MIT, but that's "only a dream. It's probably not possible." He explains that attending college in Germany would be more practical because it's free, "but it's harder to get in, even harder than Harvard. But you learn more in high school, so it's not a bad education in Germany even if you don't go to college."

He hopes to become a professional pilot, and eventually live in the United States.

California, Florida, Puerto Rico. "Or here I wouldn't mind. I would go wherever a job is."

Living in Andover and attending Andover High this year has been "what I expected. I learned about the culture, and I experienced it," Gero says. "I'm glad I did it."

And he is confident that when he says goodbye to the Kohls next month, it will not be a final farewell. He expects to return one day. "I'm sure I will."

Five features that make REAL Credit the best way for homeowners to borrow.

We give you substantial credit for owning a home. REAL Credit (Real Estate Asset Line of Credit) is a line of credit that enables qualified homeowners to obtain up to $100,000. And while many other banks only let you borrow up to 75% of the appraised equity value of your home, we allow up to 80%.

2.

You can use the money for whatever you want. Whether you need money for home improvements, college tuition, a new car, a vacation—virtually anything—you can use REAL Credit money from BayBanks. In fact, you can use it for several different purposes at the same time, if you'd like.

3.

You can use it whenever you want. With REAL Credit, you can start using the money any time you want. And your REAL Credit line is available for your use for ten years. Moreover, at the BayBanks, we won't require you to borrow before you're ready. And you pay interest only on the funds you use, regardless of the amount of your approved credit line.

You pay lower interest rates. REAL Credit features one of the best rates available—just 1½% over BayBanks Prime Rate, adjusted monthly. For example, if our Prime Rate is 12½%, the corresponding REAL Credit Annual Percentage Rate would be just 14%. In most cases, your rate will be lower than rates on ordinary loans.

5.

Something better than the rest. The best feature of REAL Credit is the overall package; it's a winning combination you won't find elsewhere. In addition, we offer a monthly statement, special checks for easy access, plus very attractive repayment terms. It all adds up to the very best.

Staff Recognition Day At West

Governor Michael S. Dukakis, proclaimed May 14 Staff Recognition Day for the staff of the West Junior High School. The idea was thought up by several students who wanted to show the staff, that students from W.J.H. are thankful for the service that is provided to them. The day, which will be honored every May 14, started with a Continental Breakfast for the staff, hosted by the students, included a tree planting by the Student Government and Homeroom Presidents, corsages were presented to homeroom teachers and designated staff by the homeroom residents. A staff recognition assembly was held. The day came to an end with the Parents Advisory Council hosting the staff with coffee, tea and desserts. Photos clockwise starting with top: From left, seated next to Lance Lee, Student Government President and Principal William E. Students Inducted In Honor Society

By Kim Kupa

Have you ever wondered what it takes for a student to gain membership into the National Honor Society?

To put it simple, it takes CLASS—Character, Leadership, Scholarship and service.

The National Honor Society handbook describes membership as an "honor bestowed upon a student."

based on outstanding scholarship, character, leadership and service." for the goal of the nationwide society, according to Kathleen Zalla, the adviser of the Andover High School chapter, is to "select students who...are positive role models for their peers." Students are selected and evaluated by faculty members on the basis of specific requirements in four areas.

The most obvious area, characteristically the one most often associated with the society, is academic achievement. By the end of the second semester in the junior year, a student must have earned a cumulative 40.5 average on a 45-point scale. This is roughly equivalent to having a 90 percent average or being in the top ten percent of the class.

Once this requirement is fulfilled, the student must, according to Ms. Zalla, give "positive evidence of his or her leadership through appointment as the captain of a sports team, through elective office in a civic, church or school organization or through active and consistent participation in class-related or extra-curricular activities."

In addition to being a leader, the prospective member must have contributed some type of service to his or her school, church or town. This can be done by participating in organizations that render service to the civic, scholastic or religious community. In its new constitution, the national office of the society emphasizes the importance of service as a requirement for admission.

Concrete accomplishments of the student in scholarship, service and leadership can be readily evaluated, but the fulfillment of the final category, character, is more difficult to assess. Information culled from faculty and or community references aids the process and the student must, according to Ms. Zalla, have "high moral standards and a well-developed sense of integrity."

Prospective candidates are judged by faculty members in these categories and those selected for membership are inducted in a special ceremony, held this year in the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts on Wednesday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m.

SETTLING PERSONAL INJURY CLAIMS

Persons injured in accidents are often contacted directly by an insurance company and asked to give details of the accident or discuss settlement. Talking to an insurance adjuster yourself or settling your claim before you understand its true value can be a very costly mistake. It is wise to consult an attorney as soon as possible and to refer all questions concerning the accident to your attorney. Contact Neil E. Onerheim or John S. Wessler. Initial consultation without charge or obligation.

Problem Solvers Place High

Andover teams participating in the Future Problem Solving program, placed high in state competition.

The leadership group in the Andover Enrichment program competed as part of the completion of year-long studies.

Working through a difficult problem on radioactive waste, the Bancroft School team placed second and the South School team placed fourth.

Coached by Helen Caplan, sixth grade teacher at West Elementary School, the Bancroft team included Stephen Poor, Jamie Greener, Stephanie Kip and Chad Livingston. The South team was composed of Julie Hersh, Marc Schwartz, Laura Koeckel and Andy Frankengerger.

The year-long curriculum project, leading to state and national interscholastic competition, is open to students in grades four through 12. Teams of four students participate in attempting to solve problems facing society in the future.

Students spend the school year working on practice problems. Performance on the third practice problem determines the selection of teams to participate in the state bowl.

There were 48 teams entered in the annual division with eight placed to participate in the state bowl at MIT. The Andover teams emerging as winners were...

Rare Dance Treat At Collins Center

Elisa Monte Dance Company

The internationally renowned Elisa Monte Dance Company is coming to the Collins Center in Andover for one night only on Saturday, May 19, at 8 p.m. The Elisa Monte Dance Company, presented under the auspices of the prestigious Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, is one of the best performance companies in America today.

Founded in 1980 by Elisa Monte, the artistic director and choreographer, the company received instant acclaim from critics and audiences alike for choreography and the dynamic presentational styles which hallmark the Elisa Monte Dance Company.

The Elisa Monte Dance Company first toured in Great Britain under the auspices of the London Dance Umbrella. Since then the company has been presented at major festivals throughout the United States, including the New York Festival at the DeLoe Theatre, the Meadowbrook Festival in Michigan, the Dance Umbrella's New York City season and recently in Massachusetts at Jacob's Pillow's 50th anniversary celebration season.

The company received rave reviews in the spring of 1982 for an engagement at the prestigious Akademie der Künste in Berlin and was awarded the First Prize for Best Company at the famous international festival Forum de la Danse de Paris. Sold out houses and sensational press marked the performance in Zurich and the Elisa Monte Dance Company was the first modern company invited to perform at the new opera house in Aarhus, Denmark. Enthusiastic audiences prompted the scheduling of return visits.

During 1983-84, the Elisa Monte Company performed at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., the Harvard Summer Dance Center, the Woodstock on Saturday, May 19, at 8 p.m. at the Collins Center.

Playhouse, the Frankfurt Opera House, the Cologne Festival and the New Stage at the Royal Danish Opera House.

Merrimack Valley residents will have the unique opportunity to see this internationally acclaimed dance company on Saturday, May 19, at 8 p.m.

In addition, the popular local dance company, the New England Dance Theatre, will present its own special synthesis of lyrical movement, striking forms and vibrant images. More than a dance ensemble, the New England Dance Theatre combines entertaining pieces with innovative costumes, lighting and sets to create dramatic effects not always seen in a dance presentation. Under the imaginative direction and choreography of Susan Van Swearingen, the company is becoming known for its "visually dynamic" style which has been called "graphic art." Area audiences won't want to miss these two unusual and spectacular dance companies.

Call the Collins Center Box Office for reservations or pick up tickets at "Just for You" or the main branch of the Andover Bank, both on Main Street in Andover.

Recitals At Phillips On Weekend

The music department of Phillips Academy will present two recitals this weekend.

On Friday, May 25, Christine Kim, a senior at the academy, will present a piano recital in Graves Hall at 7 p.m. She comes from Santa Ana, CA, where she began studying piano at age five. In 1980, she was a first place winner in the Southern California Junior Bach Festival. She was also a winner in the auditions sponsored by the Musical Arts Club of Orange County and won first prize in the junior division of the Young Artists Concerto Competition.

Kim came to Phillips Academy as a ninth grader and a pupil of Barbara Katzman. She continued to enter competitions in California, however, again receiving first prize in Orange County Musical Arts Competition and playing in the Honors Festival at the MTAC State Convention as well as at the prestigious Panel Auditions at Pasadena City College. She attended the Aspen Music School in the summer of '83, studying with Jeanne Davis.

For the past two years Kim has studied with Christopher Walter at Phillips Academy. In addition to performing with the Academy Orchestra, she is a recipient of the Kate Forskin Music Prize for outstanding performance in piano. Friday night's recital will include works of Beethoven, Chopin, Brahms and Prokofiev.

A faculty recital will be held at the Addison Gallery on Sunday, May 26, at 2 p.m. Works of Handel, Milhaud, Lehar, Debussy, Albeniz and Scriabin will be featured by various chamber groups. Performing will be Carolyn Skelton, harpsichord, and Jay Swann, viola; Florence Pearson, violin; Eric Thomas, cello; and Peter Warsaw, piano; violin duo with Florence Pearson and Laura Harn; piano, Peter Lorenzo and John Major, guitars; Linda Poole, soprano; with Peter Lorenzo, guitar; and another piano.

WHY BUY A BETTER CRIB?

If you are planning on having two or more children, if you wish to keep a crib in the family, if you want to be able to store a crib over a period of time without warping or weakening, if you want a crib that will not be ruined by an active infant, if you like to have good quality furniture, if you feel a crib that surpasses all the minimal federal safety standards is important, The Baby's Room recommends only better cribs to use.

It is not difficult to determine what makes a better crib. The combination of high grade hardwood, steel hardware, special corner post reinforcements, and safety design are made only by a few manufacturers. Extra care in the sanding and staining of the wood are also key factors in determining quality. The staff of The Baby's Room will be happy to discuss any and all questions you may have.

Andover Youngsters To Learn About Other Cultures In Rockies

By Susan Rand

To learn more about themselves and people their own age from different cultures, seven Andover youngsters will travel to the Canadian Rockies this summer for the first part of an exchange program with a group of American Indian teenagers from northern Minnesota.

The idea is in part the creation of Christ Church Rector James A. Diamond who, before coming to Andover in 1981, served on the Episcopal Bishop of Minnesota's staff for social action ministries while he was a chaplain at the University of Minnesota. Rev. Diamond tried to interest a group of teenagers from similar parishes in St. Paul and Minneapolis to visit the American Indian reservations up north and learn more about the way their residents live. But it wasn't until the minister was 1,500 miles from the Minnesota Indians that he could get young people interested in visiting the reservations.

The seven Christ Church students who will be making the trip aren't the only church members who have developed an interest in learning about Minnesota's American Indians. A number of parishioners are trying to help the reservation's residents, many of whom live in abject poverty.

"There is a great deal of excitement among the church people that has been touched off by this also given the program a grant to round out the expenses.

After the camping expedition the group will spend four days at an Episcopal convocation in Minnesota. There, said Rev. Diamond, a combination of Sioux, Ojibew, Dakota and Winnebago Indians will meet for worship services, "traditional native spirituality" and what Rev. Diamond said with a hungry smile "a lot of big meals" with homegrown and picked or hunted food on the tables.

Rev. Diamond told THE TOWNSMAN that the spirituality of Minnesota's American Indians is a special feeling.

"We romanticize about the American Indian but the spiritual presence is very, very real," he said. "God is present in a special way that is almost hard to talk about."

When they return to Andover the Minnesota travelers will have to begin thinking about what they can show their Minnesota friends in New England. Many of the young Indians are anxious to see the ocean for the first time said Rev. Diamond. Boston will be another spot that will be a first for the out-of-staters. But, asked the rector, how can you bring a group of American Indians to what we call the "cradle of liberty?"

How can you say that to someone who's ancestors were here before ours were?" he questioned.

Also to be started this summer is a number of programs in the church that will help make the quality of life better for the Minnesota Indians, many of who, said Diamond, live in ten-sided shacks with dirt floors.

He said the Christ Church women's group is starting to organize a clothing drive to send winter clothes to the reservations with the high school youngsters. Thanks to some creative thinking a lot of clothes may travel on the Sioux Falls flight this July with Rev. Diamond and the seven back-packers. Most of them will only bring along a large knapsack but each airplane passenger is allowed three pieces of luggage so each of the eight making the trip will be able to carry two extra packages of clothing along with them.

Some of the Minnesota Indians' handmade crafts and food may find its way to Andover for the annual church fair, said Rev. Diamond. The rector said he hopes to be able to sell a variety of one-of-a-kind items and specialty foods like the famous Indian-harvested wild rice and turn the profits back to the reservations.

Rev. Diamond explained, it is not necessary to travel to Minnesota to learn about different ways of life. In Minnesota he was unable to get youngsters to travel a few miles north to learn about the American Indians. It is similar, he said, to our lack of understanding about the way many minority citizens live in nearby Lawrence or downtown Boston. But, said the minister, "often you have to take people far away to help them appreciate what is close by."

Auto Race

The 15th annual Boston Bruins race will highlight a special "six-in-one" program this Sunday afternoon at the Hudson Speedway, Hudson, N.H., as both current and former hockey stars will be on hand for a 15-lap match race.

Sunday's starting time for the first qualifying heat is 1 p.m. with practice getting the green flag at noon.

Hockey Hall-of-Famers Bobby Orr and Johnny Bucyk lead the list of former players who will race on the "Masters" team. Don Marcotte, four-time "Bruins Race" champion Don Awrey and three-time winner Stan Jonathan is on the team along with Johnny "Pie" McKenzie.

Rick Middleton, the Bruins' leading goal scorer for the past five straight seasons, Mike O'Connell, this past season's TV-38 Seventh Player award winner, Keith Crowder, Bruce Crowder, Mike Gillis and Mike Milbury will make up the "All-Star" team of drivers.

"Your Mental Health" is a participatory program in which viewers can learn how to recognize the symptoms of mental illness and where to seek assistance.

Beginning with a general overview of mental illness, the program goes on to examine mental disorders that can begin in children from birth to age 12, such as learning disorders, personality development and hyperactivity. Teen suicide, substance abuse and violent behavior are part of the segment devoted to adolescents.

YALE RESEARCH SUPPORTS DIET CENTER

For 14 years Diet Center has been teaching that not all calories are alike, and that blood sugar level is a good measure of weight. Now studies being done at Yale University by Dr. Judith Rodin, an award winning researcher in the study of obesity, supports Diet Center's teachings. In an article in the

Jan. Feb. '84 issue of "American Health" Dr. Rodin states: "The experts have said the total number of calories is all that matters in many ways most experts have been wrong. The kind of food you eat profoundly affects your appetite. When you eat glucose-sugar your blood sugar level rises sharply. An experiment proved that people are famished two hours later. Diet Center's natural supplement reduces blood sugar fluctuation and thus controls hunger and the program teaches you to enjoy the Good calories needed to lose weight permanently."

Amid Varied Colors And Shapes There's Also 300 Types of Cheese

By Susan Rand

It's a sight that's not usually wrapped in a fancy package. At the Butler's Pantry, however, you may have a hard time finding which of the over 300 cheeses to buy first.

The Barnard street store is the creation of Toni and Jonathon Webber, who left successful publishing jobs in Manhattan 11 years ago to move to New England and look into the gourmet food business.

The couple had a store in Wakefield for two years before they moved to Andover, 1981, 1983.

Reflecting on the first few years with their own store Toni said they worked night and day to make it a success. But now there are nine full and part time employees at the Butler's Pantry who work alongside the Webbers. Toni and Jon are at the shop from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. an hour and a half before opening, and an hour after closing, every day except Sunday.

What is striking when you first enter the Butler's Pantry is the array of colors and shapes that surround you. There is a glass-enclosed deli case that runs almost the length of the store. One wall is filled with jams, jellies and preserves and another shows off dozens of colorful dinner napkins, designer paper plates and gourmet picnicware. A world-wide array of chocolates dominate another section of the store while common and unusual spices and herbs are lined side-by-side on a wall. The visual treat doesn't stop there. A glance upwards reveals hundreds of baskets and a few colorful pinatas suspended from the ceiling.

The decorating is all done by the Webbers. As an aside, when Jon was out of earshot, Toni praised his construction talents. Her husband, she whispered, made every crate and shelf in the shop but would never admit to being creative.

Although they admit they love their work, both Webbers are quick to say the lives they lead are hectic. Toni said she is trying to pare down her 60-hour work week to a more leisurely 42 hours.

Business never really ends," she explained. "It takes all of our energy."

Toni said she has no regrets that she and Jon made the move to New England from New York either. "It was a great move for us," she said. While working in publishing, she in photography, he on the production end of the job, the Webbers learned about gourmet shops. They looked to New York's famed Zabar's in Manhattan, thought to be the most successful gourmet shop in the country. While they lived in New York the Webbers took advantage of the different shops and foods on every corner, said Toni, adding that New York was the best place to learn about the food business.

Jon said he thinks the Butler's Pantry is right up there with the best. A customer recently told him the Andover store had a better gourmet selection than Boston's Bloomingdales or the fashionable Neiman-Marcus. And boasts Jon, the Butler's Pantry does cheese "better than anyone else."

Jon, a connoisseur of wines, attended a Drexel school to learn about them and now gives free wine advice. No one knows much about wines beyond what to serve red, white and rose with, he said.

Special services offered by the Webbers such as good tips on wine, include planning parties, designing gift baskets, party platons, and working with caterers at functions.

After planning a round the shop it is hard to believe customers come in with requests that can't be found on a shelf somewhere between the mango preserves or jalapeno chili chutney. But on occasion they are stunned, said Toni. Among the hardest-to-find items stocked at the Butler's Pantry are the quail eggs, Beluga caviar or the Porcini mushroom straight from Italy. And then there are the grand marnier soaked boscuit.

From the three to a package gingerbread boys that sell for 40c to the over $400 espresso and cappuccino makers that are among the delights at the Webbers' shop there is not one staple that anyone needs to survive, said Toni, but there are many luxury items that the large number of repeat customers "desire," she said.

Gardeners Receive Awards

Members of Four Seasons Garden Club of Andover received several awards at the annual Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute Flower Show.

Diane Butler won a First Award for her dish garden containing various succulent plants and Virginia Begg achieved a Second Award in Class 15 for her entry of Narcissus Cyclaminus "February Gold."

Emily Salby received a Second Award in the design division for her "The Perpetual Hour" vignette including a table design of all fresh material.

The club is preparing for the annual perennial sale on May 19 at Abbott Academy in conjunction with the Andover Recycling Sale. I knew my face was a mess but I had been going to a dermatologist and figured I had to live with it through my teens. She told me things I didn't know, and I had my first facial that day. Pursuing A Career To Let People Know God Active

By Susan Rand

Feeling she has a "message" to spread to others Sandy Rehe has decided to pursue a career as a Methodist minister.

Rehe, who has been a Methodist all her life, told THE TOWNSMAN that she has often thought about becoming a minister. As a young girl she learned quickly that women "weren't ministers," she explained with a laugh. They were shipped off to India as missionaries instead.

But after Rehe preached her first sermon at the Ballard Vale United Church two years ago, as a stand-in for the minister who was away, Rehe said her dream of becoming a minister "crystallized" in her mind. That same sermon was later repeated at the Ohio Methodist Church where she grew up, and Rehe was soon offered a spot as a student minister in her former home church. She turned that down, as she lived in Andover, but she seriously started thinking about how she could let people know that, as she explains, "God is active in the world today."

The story behind Rehe's sermon is very much a part of her desire to become a minister. In her first pulpit talk Rehe explained how 16 years ago, as she sat in a church pew during a service, she was miraculously cured of a curved spine that she had always had. As Rehe tells it, she prayed to God to heal her hurting back "as I sat there on the wooden pews," she said. And immediately she felt a tingling sensation spread through her head and down her hands. Her right shoulder, which was always lower than her left shoulder was all of a sudden straight.

As she passed mirrors all afternoon Rehe, who is 45, kept checking to be sure her shoulders were still straight. And when the end of the day came she told her family of her healing. Rehe concedes that she had heard "healing" stories before and not believed them.

"I think I had a message to tell," said Rehe. "I had been a skeptic about healings."

Now waiting to hear if she has been accepted to Boston University's School of Theology, Rehe has the support of the Ballardvale Church, who formally endorsed her bid to become a minister at their annual meeting on April 29. Rehe hopes to attend Boston University as a part-time student, starting this fall.

She isn't sure she wants to be a minister with a church of her own, though. Once a high school Spanish teacher, Rehe thinks her bi-lingual skills may come in handy. She would like to do some pastoral counseling, perhaps work as a chaplain in a hospital, school, jail or nursing home. Or maybe, Rehe said, she could work as a resource person in the Methodist district.

Rehe and her husband Warren live at 3 Hampton Lane with children Dana, 21; Kathy, 19; and David, 15. Her mother, Clara Harris also lives at the Andover home with the Rehe family. Rehe said that besides her family, home and the church groups she participates in, she enjoys singing with the North Parrish Choral Society, of which she is a member.

Sandy Rehe

a lot more effectiveness that way. That's one advantage of an umbrella effort."

The community team recently produced a 50-page booklet that describes the goals of Andover's substance abuse committee and the role of the ASK Teams — and includes pages of information on drug use, state laws, School Committee policy on drug use in the schools, and a listing of local resources.

"We're very proud of the booklet," O'Brien said. "It answers a lot of the questions that parents sometimes hesitate to ask." Copies are available at Memorial Hall Library, Town Hall, the Community Services department, and at the public schools. The community team has also written a series of informational articles published monthly in the TOWNSMAN.

The contribution of parents has been invaluable, O'Brien said. "Without their advocacy, reinforcement and participation, there's nothing. We are very much trying to stimulate parent participation and knowledge. We seek their input — we want a dialogue to be going on."

To date, no students have been referred to the ASK Teams in the elementary schools. At the elementary level, the program has emphasized prevention rather than intervention — and that means guiding students to handle peer pressure.

Young students are most vulnerable to negative peer pressure when they suffer from low self-esteem, lack of parental support and lack of self-respect, O'Brien said. The elementary ASK program helps them boost their self-esteem, form friendships and make decisions. "They need to know how to recognize and how to deal with peer pressure."

Committee members hope to soon introduce an elementary school program modeled after the Minnesota-based program called Project Home, which teaches elementary school children about self-esteem and drug, alcohol and child predators as threats to their safety.

At the secondary level, the program has focused more on intervention and on helping the student to make correct decisions, O'Brien said. Students sometimes feel alone and they make their own decisions. They need to know that parents are an important part of their choices for them — but they need to be able to deal with decisions. Making decisions can be a very tough task.

"We need to provide support for those students making good choices. We want to provide support for everyone, not just the students who are in trouble."

Most of the curriculum in the drug abuse program is based on a health education program that had already existed in the school system, she noted, including decision-making, self-esteem and information about drugs. "We're not starting from scratch. But the program reinforces that information, and stimulates the children and staff to work along those four major goals."

As the Committee on Substance Use and Abuse moves forward, "we keep finding more issues and more areas we'd like to address," O'Brien said.

The committee is hosting a community meeting at 7:30 tonight at the Senior Center, 36 Bartlett St., to gather citizen input and discuss ideas for future programs. The possibilities include Project Charlie, a teen center, and "safe houses" for teenagers in crisis.

And the committee would like to expand its programs to offer more services and support to townspeople and school employees, to "broaden our base," O'Brien said.

Funding for their work has come from several sources: the Andover Society, which donated funds for printing the information booklet; the Smith Purdon Fund of West Parish Church; the Andover Education Improvement Association; the Anna Sanborn Trust; the West Elementary School PTO; Hughes Pharmacy; the Sheraton-Rolling Green.

And the program has won grants from the State Department of Social Services; school staffers have donated their time. Community Services has contributed services through its contract with the Greater Lawrence Mental Health Center, private citizens have made donations.

The progress the committee has seen in the past year has been exciting and encouraging, the teacher said. She noted that other school systems have already begun approaching the Andover schools for advice on setting up their own ASK programs.

"There's a real feeling of success," she said — a feeling tempered by the practical realization that there is still much to be done.

"We've been trying to tackle one small issue at a time," O'Brien explained. "We're not trying to swallow the elephant in one gulp — just one bite at a time."

Two Families Homeless After Renovated House Hit By Bus

By Susan Rand

It will be at least a week before David and Hermine Cleary know if their newly renovated South Main Street home can be repaired or needs to be torn down.

The light-blue colonial at 123 South Main St. was hit by a Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Authority (MVRTA) bus that crossed the center-line of the South Main Street at approximately 1 p.m. last Thursday.

Officials still haven't determined why bus driver Arthur Batchelder, 60, of Epping, N.H., drove across the road and into the side-by-side duplex. Batchelder is a patient at the Lawrence General Hospital and is in stable condition on a medical floor. When asked if Batchelder had suffered a heart attack behind the wheel, Carolyn Wlodyka, at the hospital's public relations staff, said only that Batchelder's "physician was the only one who could make such a determination."

Andover police have yet to talk to Batchelder to hear his description of the accident. But Bancroft School Principal Eugene Frulla, who was driving his car directly behind the bus, told THE TOWNSMAN that the 35-seat vehicle veered to the left as it traveled up South Main St. towards Andover Square.

"It just kept on going — right into the house," said Frulla who estimated the bus was traveling at about 20 to 25 miles per hour. He added that he didn't see any traffic from the other direction that could have caused the bus to swerve. Frulla was the first person on the scene to assist bus riders after the crash.

The bus hit the side of the house that John and Ellen O'Hare and their 20-month old daughter Tara rent from the Clearys. John and Tara were at home at the time of the crash. It was John who was napping in his living room, close to where the bus hit, who, after rushing upstairs to get Tara, ran next door and called Andover police.

There were eight passengers on the bus, which was bound for Andover Square from Lawrence. Besides Batchelder, Eunice Rogers, Elizabeth Moran and Harry Stephens, all from Andover, were on the bus. Also, Marguerita Katis and Mary Gallagher, from North Andover, and Ellen Hargreaves, Doris Morley and John Coffin, all from Lawrence, were passengers. All the passengers but Stephens were taken to the Lawrence General with cuts and minor injuries. Rogers was kept overnight and the others were treated and released. Stephens went to the hospital on Friday for a check-up. He was not admitted.

Andover Police officer John Milne was the first to arrive at the scene of the accident. He told THE TOWNSMAN that when he went to board the bus he noticed Batchelder was pinned between the seat and the dashboard. Firefighters Danny Ferris and Bob Piskaldo, emergency medical technicians who were on the town's ambulance, worked to free Batchelder with the "jaws of life."

Milne said officials from the state Department of Public Utilities were examining the bus for mechanical problems on Monday. Barring a mechanical failure on the bus or other vehicles that may have caused Batchelder to cross the center of the road, Milne said he would have to speak with Batchelder about what the driver thinks caused the crash.

"It appears the driver did pass out," Milne said of Batchelder. "But I can't verify that until I talk with him."

The Cleary's house has been condemned by Andover officials who have judged it unsafe for occupancy. Sam DeSalvo, the town's building inspector, told THE TOWNSMAN that until he has assurances from qualified electricians, gas company officials and structural engineers, the Clearys and the O'Hares must stay out of the houses. All studies have been shut off, he said.

On their side of the three-story building, David and Hermine Cleary and their 17-year-old son James talked with THE TOWNSMAN last week about the accident and shaken from the damage to their newly renovated home. The family discussed how happy they were when, just a few days ago, after two weeks at a friend's home, they moved back into their "dream house."

The six-year-old is a contemporary home with an open floor plan and two-plus bedrooms. David Cleary explained how he and his wife had planned the energy-efficient, six-room home which features white walls with wood pine trimmings.

David and Hermine, who are social studies teachers at North Andover High School, moved into the new home. "We are not happy about the accident," David said. "We are sad that it happened, but we are not sad that we are here."

When the accident occurred, David was in the kitchen, and Hermine was in the living room. David was standing near the kitchen, and Hermine was standing near the living room. David was standing near the kitchen, and Hermine was standing near the living room.

Still, they are keeping their tempers in check. Hermine, who is a nurse, is in touch with the State Department of Public Welfare, and she has a medical report about what has happened to her home.

Until then, the both MVRTA and the Clearys' insurance companies are assessing the damage to the home to determine whether it can be rebuilt, said Joel R. Labell, the Cleary's Lawrence attorney. Windows and doors in the home were knocked out of line and there are cracks in the Cleary's side of the home — which is opposite the side hit by the bus, that extend from the cellar to the third floor all along the supporting beams. Some of the floors have buckled and now overlap each other and there are large gaping cracks in the ceiling.

Michael Kachman, of Fieldcrest Builders Inc., the Georgetown company that did the ten-week renovations to the Cleary's side of their home, said his company did about $50,000 worth of work on the Cleary's house.

Labell told THE TOWNSMAN that after structural engineers determine whether the home can be salvaged both insurance companies will discuss the cost of a settlement.

"First we have to find out whether the home can be repaired or whether it will have to be torn down. Then we have to establish the cause of the accident," said Labell. "We need to know what happened to the bus driver — how did he end up there. We should know in about ten days whether or not the house has to come down."

Labell said it was his professional opinion that there might be cause for the O'Hares to file a suit against the MVRTA. He isn't representing the Cleary's tenants, but Labell did say that because John and young Crafts In The Park.

The ninth annual Crafts in the Park celebration was held under sunny skies and mild temperatures Sunday, attracting 130 professional craftsmen. The displays included woodcarvings, lampshades, quilts, wooden animals, pottery and many other items. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the American Field Service exchange program that sends Andover students to foreign countries and brings foreign students to town. The event is co-sponsored by AFS Andover chapter and the Department of Community Services. Jean Kirkwood of Andover was chairman. Inconvenience Produces Appreciation

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

There's nothing like a little inconvenience to make us appreciate special services we may have come to expect. Andover's curbside pickup of recyclable paper and glass was temporarily suspended Wednesday after the new contractor had an equipment breakdown for which adequate backup was not yet in place. People who may never have thought to say "Thank you" to Fran, Mike and Robert Reilly for keeping the collection rolling so dependably for almost three years are now perhaps wishing they had. The Reillys spoiled us into taking our recycling pickups for granted when there are actually very few door-to-door programs in Massachusetts—in fact, fewer than ten of some 75 communities that had recycling programs in April 1981 or had had them in the past.

The understanding and cooperation most residents have shown in this sudden disruption of a service on which they've come to depend has been truly gratifying. Fortunately for all of us, recycling continues in Andover at the interim recycling station at Bartlet and Park, thanks to Town Manager Kenneth Mahony and DPW Director Bob McQuade, who permitted containers for paper and glass to be placed in this centrally located spot. By last Friday afternoon Baynard Paul of Essex West Paper had sent us the paper bin and by Sunday David White of North Atlantic Recycling Services had provided a container for glass.

The eight volunteers whose phone numbers are listed in the recycling calendar are getting a lot of calls lately but still welcome yours if you have questions. Every effort is being made to put the recycling pickup back into operation as soon as possible.

President Andover Recycling

Homework

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

There is much talk today about more homework for our young people in the schools. However, nobody suggests just what the homework should be. One mother says that "most kids do it, but a great many don't." Surely, these are the ones who need it most. This brings up the question as to just what teachers are handing out as homework.

I would suggest that what they need mostly is work in speech and writing. I would suggest that every child, starting in the first grade and continuing through the 12th grade, should have one period a day over and above anything on the present schedules of some form of speech, such as dramatics, debating or public speaking. Years ago it was important that children should memorize poetry. It's become a lost art. I would point out that Woodrow Wilson, head of the American history department at Princeton, Governor of New Jersey and then President of the United States for eight years, the busiest man in the world during World War I, found time to commit to memory four new lines every day of his life. Imagine the tremendous library stored in his mind. Always the proper quotation for the proper occasion.

First graders can memorize four lines very easily. With the exception of the mentally retarded, every child in any school system should be able to memorize four lines a week. I suggest that every class should stage three plays a year. This should

Recycling A Dream

Andover's recycling program, temporarily in difficulty, will test the mettle (no pun intended) of those who oversee it, as well as the residents who have regularly participated in the program.

A new contractor began operations here earlier this month, but apparently found the task too difficult to maintain and his equipment not sufficient to handle the Andover operation. He terminated the Andover service shortly after starting despite having successfully served another community not too distant from here.

The result is a temporary suspension in the weekly pickup of recyclables.

Like everything else, the disruption could potentially lead to a reduction in the weekly pickup of paper and glass in Andover—a program which has been successfully built up over a period of years.

Andover Recycling, Inc., a non-profit, volunteer corporation which conducts the town's recycling program, has taken steps to attempt to resolve immediate problems.

Bins have been placed in the former Heartland property at Bartlet and Park Streets where residents may deposit paper and glass, which will be picked up by contractors.

In the meantime, the volunteers are working feverishly to obtain another contractor to re-establish the curbside pickup of paper and glass.

What has happened is an unfortunate turn of events, considering that the town's recycling program has been maintained by voluntary efforts overcoming any number of obstacles over the years.

Initially, the program was introduced to the town as part of the initiation of the municipal refuse pickup program.

With rising costs of this service, coupled with restraints of proposition 2½, the program had to be cut as a town-supported service. Andover Recycling Inc. was spawned from that decision and the curbside pickup of recyclables was continued.

The non-profit corporation was formed to continue the program based on the initial purposes of the recycling effort—to conserve natural resources and to ultimately save the community money when Andover, like other communities, will be paying a tipping fee for disposal of solid waste at a regional plant under construction in North Andover.

While the committee faces some difficult problems, the purpose of a recycling program and their efforts have not diminished.

Nor, has their enthusiasm to respond even in this crisis situation.

The corporation members have responded with the placement of the bins which will allow residents to continue to participate in the town's recycling efforts.

They are busily attempting to secure the services of a contractor to resume the curbside pickup as soon as possible.

Certainly the least townspeople can do is assist them in their efforts by continuing to participate in a worthwhile community and environmental program.

Sure, it may be a little inconvenient for a while to bag the paper and glass and trek to the new municipal parking lot off Park Street to make the deposit. But it is through such effort that these volunteers will find that their efforts are not going unrewarded. That, while many other communities have found it easy to succumb to the easy way out and drop recycling programs, Andover will continue to overcome the odds and participate.

Before Andover's dump on Chandler Road was closed by state authorities, the weekly trip with the refuse was virtually a social event for many in the community.

As a tribute to the dedicated recyclers, it is recommended that such a weekly event be reinstated temporarily.

Down The Years With The Townsman

25 Years Ago — May 1909

The Phillips Academy trustees have purchased a new horse gasoline lawn mower and roller combined.

Last Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Andover Grange as the speaker failed to appear, the members entertained themselves with a spelling-match. Mrs. J. Warren Moser and Mrs. Samuel H. Bailey acted as captains. Miss H. Winnie Burt won the contest for her side, she being with Mrs. Bailey.

A communication in another column urges the importance of immediate work on the Ballardvale School grounds. Bless our good Ballardvale people! They must not become too much disturbed over any delays they experience in the work they are hoping for. The grounds around the Stowe School have never been graded, and we are inclined to think they need it today as much as do those at Ballardvale.

The new Industrial Club for the purchase of flour by the barrel, for the benefit of its members, was successfully started in Abbott Village hall last Friday evening. There are already about 80 members in the club, whose shares amount to over 150, and new members are still joining.

40 Years Ago — May 1934

The Board of Selectmen has called a special town meeting for the evening of Thursday, May 31 at 7.30 to see if the town will change its vote on the P. W. A. school project, so that the treasurer may borrow from the banks rather than from the Federal Government. This will permit the town to proceed at a lower rate on the project, since the treasurer will be enabled to borrow immediately.

The local playstead ball retrieving problem was settled Wednesday evening at a special meeting of the Board of Public Works. Each team hereafter is to appoint some responsible man to retrieve the balls, thus eliminating the payment of $1 per night to a BPW employee. The board will continue to see that the bases are taken in nights.

Dr. Jesse B. Davis of Ballardvale, who is well known as the author of "Moral and Vocational Guidance," recently spoke to the young men of Company's 110 and 167 C.C.C. on "Plan-

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Military penny pinchers putting soldiers in danger

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Despite the billions being spent on defense, the armed services are neglecting safety measures that would protect their personnel for just a fistful of dollars.

Our associate Donald Goldberg has had access to the Army's safety files; they are replete with evidence that military officials often put the safety of their men and women second to pinching a few pennies. Some examples:

— Reports show that soldiers are dying because their life jackets are so old they are useless. This isn't a new problem. It was brought to the Pentagon's attention nine years ago when Green Berets at Fort Bragg, N.C., were drowning on training exercises because of outdated life jackets. But the Army has apparently made little effort to correct the situation, and soldiers are still drowning.

— One soldier was killed and four were injured in night exercises at Fort Drum, N.Y., when tanks and other vehicles ran off the road in October 1983. The reason was that the drivers of the vehicles didn't have night-vision equipment. When they were driving without lights, they were driving blind. Incidentally, the night-vision equipment costs about $5,000 per vehicle.

— In March 1982, the army brass ordered a mass parachute drop in dangerously high winds. Safety officers ignored their own regulations. Six paratroopers died and scores were injured. But even with the publicity over this outrage, the Army never investigated eyewitness evidence that safety procedures had been ignored.

— In the 1960s, the Army bought a new reconnaissance helicopter even though officials knew that model had engine problems. The result has been the injuries and deaths of dozens of soldiers, yet the Army refuses to spend the money necessary to fix the engine problem. We have seen "eyes only" cables that express the concern some officials have over the helicopter's design. We have also seen the responses. The necessary corrections, one official wrote, would be "contrary to the aviation community's conscious decision to buy new assets at the expense of ... improving our current fleet."

Put another way, the generals would rather buy new helicopters than make sure the ones it has can be flown safely.

ANOTHER SAFETY STORY: The Energy Department is covering up a disturbing report that deals with the safety of workers at its nuclear weapons factories.

Government officials learned seven years ago that workers at the DOE's Savannah River plant at Aiken, S.C., showed higher-than-normal rates of leukemia and lung cancer. Yet reports to Congress played down the serious health hazard.

One DOE contractor's report that still hasn't been released shows that researchers are concerned about the high rate of cancer at Savannah River. States the document: "The apparent increased risk for leukemia in male wage employees appears real. The argument against this risk being occupation-related needs to be expanded."

In other words, the bureaucrats are trying to talk their way out of the embarrassing fact that the leukemia rate was almost twice as high at Savannah River as among other workers and that lung cancer at the plant was well above normal.

In a subsequent letter to the House Armed Services Committee, DOE officials wrote that "none of these studies have shown statistically significant excesses in deaths from cancer in the work place population which can be associated with work place conditions."

The accuracy of that statement is more dubious in the DOE's definition of the word "significant." Apparently, a leukemia rate almost twice as great as normal is not considered "significant" by the people who run the nation's nuclear weapons factories.

WATCH ON THE FED: Ordinarily, the Federal Reserve Board's troubles with Congress and the White House are enough to put anyone but an economics professor to sleep. But the current battle between the Fed and the politicians can have a direct impact on anyone who is thinking of buying a home or a car. The reason: The feud involves interest rates. The president and most members of Congress are running hard for re-election. They don't want interest rates to rise and have the voters blame them for it. So they are trying to get the Fed to ease up on the money supply to keep the rates down. Look for a bipartisan effort in Congress to go after the Fed by taking control over its budget.

Congressmen who deal with Fed chairman Paul Volcker have a new nickname for him. He is being called the "Great Non-Committment." It is a ploy to obfuscate and filibuster. During congressional hearings, Volcker is frequently asked to keep his answers short and to explain money supply problems in simple language. He usually ignores the requests. He acknowledges the lawmakers' complaints, but he seldom budges from his stated positions.

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

Of all the many components in the kitchen, lighting is one that you can least afford to skimp on. Not only can poor lighting make a cheery kitchen seem dreary, but it can also promote fatigue and even cause accidents. A good rule of thumb is to incorporate enough general task and accent lighting so that you never work in a shadow. To light an average size 10x12 kitchen it should be outfitted with approximately 250 watts of incandescent or 90 watts of fluorescent lighting. To combine the two allow roughly 2 watts of incandescent light or 1/4 watt of fluorescent light for every square foot of kitchen space.

When remodeling your kitchen lighting shouldn't be forgotten. Today kitchens are no longer just an eating and cooking room. They have become complete living areas. Walls are being torn down to incorporate your former dining room into a dining and family recreation center. When you come to WINDSOR KITCHENS at 1181 Boston Rd. Ward Hill, our staff will gladly help you design the room of your dreams. We'll have cabinets for the kitchen, plus the play area. You'll save time and money when you work with us. Andover Varsity Back On Track

By Dan Grams

In a season in which the Andover High School Golden Warriors Varsity baseball team have had their share of ups and downs, the Golden Warriors may be starting to make their move toward the Merrimack Valley title.

After a three-game losing streak, split games (last week), the Golden Warriors have a modest two-game winning streak going and are only two games out of first place with five games remaining.

Outstanding pitching performances by the senior trio of Billy Vickers, Rob Wilson and Mark Grams, coupled with the heroics of sophomores Rob Carpentier and John Nuzzo have been the key to the Golden Warriors' successful week in which they took three of four games.

Andover 6 - Dracut 0

Lefthander Billy Vickers registered his second shutout of the season, firing a six hitter as Andover blanked Dracut 7-0.

He seemed almost invincible striking out seven and walking two. Out of the six middle singles, only one ball was hit out of the infield.

Andover jumped to a quick 1-0 lead in the second in back-to-back doubles by John Leahy and John Delaney, but it was a big six-run fourth inning where the damage was done.

Rob Wilson was hit by a pitch to start the inning and stole second. Vickers walked and Bob Charland had an infield single to load the bases. Delaney, John Duffy, Mark Grams, Sean Burns and Mike Gibson followed with RBI singles and the damage was done 7-0.

Grams and Delaney each had two hits to pace the Golden Warriors while Leahy, Duffy, Charland, Gibson and Burns had the other hits.

Tewksbury 2 - Andover 1

The Andover bats just could not get out of gear, leading to Tewksbury's 2-1 triumph.

Rob Wilson again was the tough luck loser, throwing a strong six hitter. Wilson struck out six and walked just three as he helplessly watched his record dip to 0-2.

Andover jumped to a quick 1-0 lead in the first. John Delaney started things with a bunt single and stole second and raced home on John Leahy's hit. The threat ended abruptly as Leahy was promptly picked off first.

The score remained 1-0 until the third when Tewksbury knotted the score at one.

They scored what proved to be the game winner in the fourth. Wilson took over and relied on his moving fastball to keep the Redmen at bay the rest of the day.

Andover entered the seventh down 2-1. Wilson ripped a one-out double putting the tying run on second. Tewksbury easily handled the next two Warrior hitters in order, leaving Wilson stranded and giving Tewksbury a 2-1 victory.

Andover 10 - Wilmington 6

Rob Carpentier, making his first varsity pitching appearance, threw 1 and 2/3 innings of solid relief pitching to slam the door on Wilmington and give Andover a hard-fought 10-6 decision.

The Warriors struck for three runs in the third inning. Billy Vickers and Rob Wilson walked and stole bases on a double steal. Mark Grams ripped a line single scoring Vickers and Wilson and took second on the throw to the plate. He then swiped third and scored when the catcher's throw sailed into left field.

Righthander Bill Weidman was the Golden Warrior starter and got off to a good start, retiring the first nine batters to face him, but the Wildcats struck for three runs in the fourth to even the score at three.

It took the locals an inning to respond and they did with a bang. Mark Grams singled and stole second. Sean Burns followed and deposited a towering homer deep to left field.

Andover picked up a pad run in the sixth via a John Delaney single, two stolen bases and an infield out.

Wilmington quickly erased a 6-3 Andover lead, with a walk and four straight singles. Carpentier was summoned and proceeded to strike out the next two batters to end the inning.

Andover went out in front for good in the seventh when Grams walked, stole second and came round on Burns' third hit of the game. Leahy and Gibson ripped singles to score two more. Jim Denoncourt stole third base and was rescued by a John-Delaney infield out. After the dust had cleared, Andover was up 10-6.

Carpentier retired the side in the bottom of the seventh to preserve the Andover victory.

The Golden Warriors had 11 hits and 12 stolen bases. Burns had 3 hits and 3 RBIs while Grams had 2 hits, 2 RBIs and 3 stolen bases and Gibson had 2 hits, and 2 RBIs. Wilson, Leahy, Duffy and Delaney had the other hits.

Bancroft Schedules Road Race

The Bancroft PTO will hold its second annual Fun Run Road Race at Bancroft Elementary School at 1 p.m. on June 3.

Ribbons will be presented to all participants and awards will given to the top three male and female finishers in each category.

Junior Varsity Sweeps

By Dan Grams

The Andover High Junior Varsity baseball team continued to improve their near perfect record by sweeping four games last week. The clean sweep raises the Golden Warriors' ledger to 10-1.

The Junior Warriors received solid pitching from Nick Lembo, Kevin Rourke, Larry Aiello and Rob Carpentier to pave the way. John Nuzzo supplied the offensive punch at the plate.

Nuzzo had quite a week going 7-for-15 with four extra base hits and six RBIs. In addition, the sophomore shortstop made his varsity debut by one to remember, by ripping an RBI single to key a Golden Warrior rally vs. Lawrence.

Andover 13 - Dracut 2

It's not often that every thing goes your way, but that's exactly what happened to the Golden Warriors as they pounded out 14 hits and played flawless defense as Andover soundly defeated Dracut 13-2.

John Nuzzo led the attack with four hits. Nuzzo, who had three extra base hits for the day, delivered the big blow in the opening stanza as the Golden Warriors picked up three runs and never looked back.

Rob Ditroia got things started with a single, stole second and advanced to third on Leo Gravel's infield out. Dave Schwedler and Rob Nelson walked, loading the bases to set the stage for Nuzzo.

Nuzzo sent Dracut middle hurler Mike Lyons first offering into orbit but, unfortunately, it was ruled a ground rule double. Larry Aiello followed with a long sacrifice fly and Andover was up 3-0.

Andover picked up three in the third inning and six in the fourth to put the game out of reach. Kevin Rourke, Ditroia and Nuzzo again had the key hits in the six-run uprising.

Meanwhile, righthander Nick Lembo was wending his pitching record at 1-1. Lembo limited Dracut to four hits, while walking three and whiffing six, before giving way to Rob Carpentier. Lembo's best inning came in the second when he fanned the side.

The Golden Warriors put together their best defensive effort of the year with Ditroia, Nelson and Aiello standing out. Scott Wilkins made the play of the game as he gunned down a runner trying to advance an extra base.

Rourke had three safeties to go along with Nuzzo's four hits. Ditroia, Gravel, Wilkins, Nelson and Aiello had the other Warrior hits.

Andover 7 - Tewksbury 2

Kevin Rourke raised his mound record to 4-0, swirling a nifty five hitter in his best pitching performance this season as Andover defeated Tewksbury 7-2.

Rourke let his defense do the work, striking out only five. Tewksbury was just pounding the ball into the ground all day as Rourke threw 10 ground-ball outs.

Andover opened the scoring in the top of the first when Rob Ditroia led off with a single and stole second. Leo Gravel followed with a line single and stole second. Putting two runners in scoring position, Rob Carpentier chased home Ditroia with a single, but the Tewksbury hurler retired the next three hitters in order.

The Golden Warriors picked up two more tallies in the second in singles by Ditroia and Gravel and were knocking on the door again in the third. Larry Aiello and Earl Abdoo walked. Mike Dimeo ripped an RBI single and Peter Quintal reached on an error to load the bases. Ditroia then laced a two-run single to up the lead to 6-0. The Tewksbury Redmen picked up a single tallie in the fourth for a Rourke throwing error and another in the fifth on an RBI single by Steve Blades, but Rourke shut the door the rest of the day.

Andover picked up their last run in the sixth when John Nuzzo reached on an error and stole second and was rescued by an Aiello RBI single.

Andover 7 - Wilmington 2

Good defense, solid pitching and timely hitting were the name of the game as Andover soundly defeated Wilmington 7-2.

And the timely hitting of John Nuzzo (three-run homer), Mike Dimeo (RBI single), Leo Gravel (RBI single) and Rob Carpentier (sacrifice fly) were the difference.

Andover jumped to a quick start as Gravel drew one out walk, stole second and advanced to third when Carpentier's hot shot was misplayed. Nuzzo followed with a home run to left-center field, giving Andover a quick 3-0 lead.

The Golden Warriors put another run on the board via a Gravel RBI single and put the game out of reach in the sixth.

Rob Nelson, ripped a leadoff double and Dimeo and Nick Lembo followed with singles. Rob Ditroia added to force home a run while Gravel drove in another. Carpentier followed with a long sacrifice fly to close the scoring for Andover.

National League Minors

By Andy Shea

The 1984 season opened on a glorious Spring day and all six teams and almost 80 players saw action.

After two weeks of games the Cardinals (managed by Alan Gable and Tom Zappala) and the Dodgers (managed by Ken Elliot and Tim Haarmann) lead the league with two wins and one loss. The Cards only loss was a one-run decision against the Pirates.

Dennis Lyons' Braves got off to a rocky start but have won their last two games to bring their record to 2 wins, 1 loss, 1 tie.

The Phillies, under Andy Shea's tutelage, are even with 2 wins and 2 losses. One loss was a one-run heartbreaker against the Cards.

The Giants (coached by Ed Brown and Larry Hesenius) currently sport a record of 1 win, 2 losses and a tie against the Braves.

John Capeless and John Muscatel are coaching the hard-luck Pirates who have only one win in four outings, but have shown flashes of good baseball and figure to improve.

National Majors Little League

By Jim Arnold

Some early season routs had led to talk of one or two teams dominating the National League this year. But, this past week, the Cardinals and Cubs both came up with their first victories, while the Mets handed the Pirates their first loss. All five teams are within one loss of each other.

Pirates 7 - Braves 3

Pitchers Curt Solomon and Bryan Boucher threw smoke all night as the Pirate duo combined to limit the Braves to one hit. The win was the Buos' third in four outings while Tim Lane's Braves dropped to 2-1.

The Pirates obviously don't feel that designated hitters are necessary because Boucher went 3-for-4 while Solomon slammed a long triple and Jeff Hurley doubled.

Braves hurler David Blank fanned nine Pirate batters but was unable to get any support from his teammates.

Cubs 9 - Mets 8

Al Minichiello's Cubs broke into the win column behind the arms of Sean Darwin, Chad Livingston and Steve Molineaux. The Cub staff, a sore spot in their previous two games, came through to hold the Mets to just three singles.

Darwin, Albie Minichiello and Dan Lennon propelled the Cubs to an early 7-2 lead, but fielding miscues let the Mets back in the contest.

With the score tied in the sixth, Chris Caltagirone hammered a two-run homer to put the Cubs ahead to stay. The timely round-tripper was his second of the season.

The Cub infield got its act together when it counted, nailing four Met runners at the plate. Also, Dan Ferris came up with diving stab.

The Mets' Ryan Legrow and Justin Lattanzio hit ropes all evening, but it wasn't enough.

Cardinals 8 - Braves 5

The Cards came up with their first win of the campaign behind the gutsy pitching of Adam Brown. The 11-year-old went the distance, striking out nine. He was aided by numerous defensive marvels, many of them by Jason Proctor.

The Redbirds rapped 12 hits in the contest. Leading the parade with two apiece were Brent Raftery, Pat Finn and Sean Gill. Steve Caltagirone laid down the bunt of the century and Frank Morey chipped in a double.

David Bakulski and Jeff Manning provided the power with a double apiece for the Braves.

American League Majors

Orioles 10 - White Sox 9

The Orioles registered their second victory of the young season with a 10-9 win over the favored White Sox. After Brett Hammond set down the Sox in order in the first, pitcher Mike DiStefano toughed out his half for the Sox despite base hits by Hammond and Chip Stella.

The White Sox scored once in the second, taking advantage of two Oriole errors. The Orioles countered with seven runs which proved to be decisive. Tom DeBenedictis led off with a double. Paul Durant knocked in DeBenedictis with a single. Kirk McConville walked. Peter Arthur tripled to right center, rescuing both Durant and McConville. Hammond reached when the Sox leftfielder misplayed his fly ball, scoring Arthur. Stella singled and Dave Carriere's single scored both Hammond and Stella.

DeBenedictis' single, his second hit of the inning, scored Carriere with the seventh run.

The White Sox, a competitive team, never gave up as base hits by Peter Kannan, Brian Yergatian, DiStefano and Jim Morris produced three runs in the third. Oriole miscues and base on balls allowed the Sox to close the gap in the fourth as three more runs crossed the plate. Three more Oriole runs in the late stages of the game proved to be the difference. Arthur, Stella and Hammond base hits were the run producers.

Despite a White Sox threat in the final frame, Carriere gained a save to preserve the win for Hammond. DiStefano, Chris Eggert and Yergatian shared pitching duties for the White Sox.

Physical Exams Are Planned

The Andover School Athletic Department is attempting to organize physical examinations for students interested in participation in the athletic program at the junior and senior high schools next year. The examinations can be administered this June at a nominal fee if there is evidence of sufficient interest.

The Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association requires that students must have had a physical examination within the past year before they participate in the school athletic program. Students not fulfilling this requirement will not be allowed to participate in the program.

A survey letter has been sent home with students this week. Interested parents are asked to have their children return the survey to the physical education staff at their respective schools by Friday, May 18.

This service will not be offered unless there is sufficient interest and support by parents.

The Red Sox won their fourth game in five tries against the Yankees 12-7. Sean Ryan and Chris Lembo combined for the victory. Peter VanOlinda had a bases-loaded double, Joe Iarrobino was 2-for-2, plus two walks in four tries, and Paul Lembo and Dave Sopp had two hits each to pace the Red Sox offense. Pat Hayes and Mike Pettoruto had two hits each for the Yankees.

The Red Sox and the Orioles played to a 12-12 tie in a game called at the end of six due to darkness. The game will be replayed at a later date.

Paul Lembo and George Bilger split the Red Sox pitching duties, striking out five each, while Bret Hammond struck out three for the Orioles.

The cold, damp weather produced many walks and some sloppy play, but offense was generated by Mike Plankey, Chris Lembo and Mike Tiberi for the Red Sox and Jim DeAngelo and David Carriere for the Orioles.

The Red Sox beat the White Sox in a nailbiter 9-8. With the Red Sox leading 8-5 going into the sixth inning, Chris Eggert unloaded for a three-run homer over the rightfield fence to tie the game. Bobby Cronin had walked and John Mellilo reached on an error to set the stage for Eggert's blast. Paul Lembo then set the White Sox down to set up the bottom of the sixth.

In the Red Sox sixth Joe Iarrobino led off and was hit by Eggert's 0-2 pitch. Dave Sopp struck out. Mike Tiberi reached on an error, moving Iarrobino to second. Mike Plankey struck out and George Bilger drove a single to right center to score Iarrobino for the winning run.

Lembo went the distance for the Red Sox, striking out six along the way.

Peter Vergatian and Chris Eggert shared the duties for the White Sox, striking out seven, two for Vergatian and five for Eggert.

Joe Iarrobino had 3 RBIs on three hits, was hit by a pitch and scored four runs to lead the Red Sox. Paul Lembo chipped in with two hits.

Vergatian had three hits for the White Sox and Eggert had the three-run homer to pace their attack.

start in first grade and continue through high school. At the upper levels they should select a Shakespeare, a good comedy and a musical. Every one in the class should participate. Let it not be just for the smart ones but for all. In Andover, for example, where the classes run close to 500 students, a play requiring 20 in the cast, could have 20 different casts stage the same play. A good chance for competition. The lad who doesn't want to perform just might be the one for a funny part. The experience would be good for him and he would soon want to perform again. Costumes could be made up by the sewing department and the scenery and props could be made by the manual training department.

Best of all, there should be no tickets. Open up the doors to the public. It would be good for the schools as well as the students. With this program we would develop personality and improve everyone's memory. It would improve speech and improve English. The more they performed, the more they would enjoy it.

We could forget all this new homework that they're talking about. Memorizing parts would be worth more than some of the homework which in many cases may be useless.

All the problems with speech are not the fault of the schools. Much of it stems from the media. On TV they say "Ya gotta have arts" when it would be just as easy to say "You have got to have arts." The sportswriter quotes the professional athlete as saying, "We're gonna win this one," when he should say "we are going to win this one." The "ing" is a just art. Why don't these people realize that they are teaching the young people very poor English. All these people are college graduates. They should know better. When I was a reporter for the Eagle-Tribune in the 20s, 30s and 40s, I wouldn't think of turning in that kind of copy. In quoting a man, we would give him the benefit of good English. The Tribune staff in those days was made up of people who had never seen the inside of a college building.

Several of the reporters who had to go to work after graduating from grammar school learned their good English in Lawrence Evening High School. If they turned in any of that slipshod copy, it would land back on their desks in a hurry. Today the editors let it go through.

In a city like Lawrence, where there are so many ethnic groups, where English is a problem to them, ning for Your Job." Dr. Davis stressed the value of education in fitting oneself for a life work.

25 Years Ago — May 1959

A special town meeting has been summoned for June 8, in Memorial Auditorium, to act on the withdrawal from the Essex County Mosquito Control project. The Selectmen unanimously voted to call the meeting — which requires a quorum of 350 voters — after receiving a letter from the Finance Committee recommending that procedure. Under the law, if the town does not get out before Aug. 11 of 1959, there will not be another opportunity to withdraw until 1962.

An effort will be made by the Selectmen to have a school bus alleviate the children's pedestrian problem on Beacon street. Residents of the street appeared before the Selectmen the media are encouraging them to murder the language.

If we are going to pile on homework, let's do something to improve speech and to improve the memory.

As for writing, first graders could learn to write a new sentence every day, second graders, two sentences, increasing the number to paragraphs in the junior high and a higher increase at high school level. They would learn from doing. This applies to punctuation and spelling.

We can all look back to the many times when a teacher had a problem on the blackboard, when she turned and said "Are there any questions?" No one spoke up. She probably hoped that they would.

They were too shy to ask a question, being the only one of 25 who didn't get it, not realizing that the other 24 didn't get it either but were too shy to speak up. The teacher probably was too shy to speak up herself as a student. She should know after all the years that they didn't get it. With a good speech program, the youngsters would get over the shyness. With a good speech program they would do better in all their subjects.

This letter isn't worth the paper it is printed on, unless the teachers respond. A flood of letters from them, perhaps even criticizing this letter, might, perhaps, together, come up with ideas to improve the curriculum of the schools.

Monday night to present their case for lessening the truck traffic on the street, where there are no sidewalks. One Beacon street resident was at last week's meeting, when residents of Canterbury street argued that they should not have any of the trucking from the country club gravel pit on their residential street.

Pellet size pieces of hot carbon from a diesel engine have been blamed for starting last Sunday's spectacular fire that burned nearly 100 acres of brush and woodland in the Lowell Junction area. Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton said the diesel engine had also started a couple of fires along the tracks in Wilmington. Hundreds of persons clogged the limited roads into the area as firefighters from six communities fought the blaze.

Willows Adds To Facilities

After more than 11 years of serving the North Andover area tennis community, the Willows Racquet Club, 411 Turnpike St., has undergone major changes. Until recently the Willows Racquet Club had five indoor hard courts and four outdoor fast-dry courts in conjunction with Cahoots restaurant located on the upper level. Now, a total fitness center along with two racquetball courts have combined to make the Willows a unique family center of fun and physical fitness. The Willows Fitness Center includes state-of-the-art Nautilus circuit training and aerobic fitness training.

The Nautilus area, located in the new wing, is a pleasant environment where members can exercise under the eyes of trained instructors. The traditional Spartan exercise room has been replaced by plush rugs, green plants and music. Musculature exercise for building strength, endurance, tone or flexibility can be accomplished in the most efficient manner, taking minimal time. A complete Nautilus workout can be accomplished in less than 20 minutes.

In conjunction with musculature exercise the center offers two areas of aerobic conditioning. A separate aerobics area on the upper level provides a private environment where members can exercise to music. All classes are choreographed by Mrs. Amy Pingree, aerobics director.

For those with busy schedules, computerized aerobic training is available. Two units are available.

All members entering the fitness program are pre-tested. Such tests as blood pressure, submaximal stress, skin-fold caliper (to measure the ratio of muscle to fat) are used together with a three-page medical history and numerous anatomical measurements. These results provide important information in determining a member's current level of fitness and subsequent exercise prescription. There is no charge for the tests which take about 30 minutes. Area residents interested in being tested may call Mark Chiungos, Nautilus director.

Manager Mike Coconis invites the public to the grand opening June 1-3. There will be drawings for free memberships, demonstrations, tours and a few surprises.

Smokers Clinic

According to Carolyn Forgiione, R.N., B.S.N., Bon Secours Hospital coordinator of patient, family, and community health education, "If you are a smoker interested in kicking the habit, one of the best ways to do so is by identifying and dealing effectively with the factors that motivate you to smoke." Identifying these factors will be the focus of "Smoker's Liberation," a five-part, stop-smoking program being offered by Bon Secours Hospital beginning on May 24 and concluding on June 7, 1984.

During the program, facilitators will provide individuals with various tips on how to quit smoking and remain a non-smoker, emphasizing the need for self-discipline during what can often be a difficult period. The program's format includes group discussions, lectures, written materials and audio-visuals. A strong emphasis will be placed on group participation and support.

Smoker's Liberation will meet from 7 to 8 p.m. There will be a $25 charge, $20 of which will be refunded upon successful completion of the program. To pre-register, contact Carolyn Forgiione at the hospital.

BORROW TO BIGGER PROFITS

The secret to making real estate investments pay is borrowing. This idea of assuming what may be a staggering debt flies in the face of conventional wisdom. Yet, borrowing is the only means most people have of acquiring real estate - and it's the shortest route to high returns.

In real estate, borrowing is called leverage. Suppose you have $50,000 in the bank and you want to buy a $100,000 property. Thinking the old way, you'd put all your cash down and take a $50,000 mortgage. If you eventually sell the property for $150,000, you would have made a 100% profit.

What if you had used leverage and put only $20,000 down? Your return on the same selling price would be $250 for every dollar you invested - or 250% rather than the original 100%. Meanwhile, you could have used the extra $30,000 you didn't invest for other purchases. Tax breaks are nice, but the real money made in real estate comes from using leverage.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 5 Pynchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

What makes someone change from this... to this?

The temptation to sell your own house is very strong. For some, it's a matter of money. For others, it's a matter of pride. But the truth is that more than half the people who start out selling their houses themselves end up listing with a broker. Before you make the decision to sell your own house - or even if you're trying it - talk to your CENTURY 21® Neighborhood Professional® and ask us about our new For Sale by Owner plan.

Bus Accident

Tara O'Hare were present at the time of the crash they may have sustained traumatic injury which would expose the bus company to liability. The O'Hares, who David Cleary said are living with relatives, couldn't be reached to comment before THE TOWNSMAN went to press.

Joseph Costanza, MVRTA administrator, told THE TOWNSMAN that last Thursday's accident was the first of its kind since the local agency started running buses in 1974.

While the mathematics of the accident are being worked out the Clearys are staying with friends. They just want to get settled in a house or apartment, somewhere, said David Cleary.

Every night the family has been looking at apartments and homes for rent, but most renters are requiring a one-year lease, David explained. He is hoping his housing problem will be resolved in less than a year so the family is wary about signing a lease. David said the family would appreciate any information from townspeople about homes or apartments available for his family, which includes two cats. They want to stay in Andover because James will graduate from Andover High next month. To leave messages for the Clearys call Lee Dodd Realty, 68 Park St., Andover, at 475-8543.

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Canoe Race Ends in Tragedy

What started as a way to save a few precious seconds in a canoe race on Saturday morning ended in tragedy as a Wilmington man drowned in the Shawsheen Falls area of the Shawsheen River.

Scott Braciska, 19, of Wilmington, was pulled from the water at 11:30 a.m., on Saturday, after the boat he and partner Robert Landrigan, 19, also of Wilmington, were paddling was pulled under water at the falls. The canoe racers, in the Sixth Annual Shawsheen Watershed Environmental Action Team Race, were supposed to take their boats out of the water and walk around the falls.

Braciska's body was recovered by Andover firefighters Lt. Charles Murnane, Lt. Ted Sutton and Scott Gorrie some three hours after the Andover station received the call for help at 8:37 a.m.

Sutton told THE TOWNSMAN that he and Gorrie were in the department's rescue boat when they found the body. He surmised that it had been trapped under the falls. Emergency personnel at the scene were dislodging debris from underneath the falls that may have trapped Braciska, said Andover Police Lt. John Lynch. Sutton said that many off-duty Andover fire and police officers were at the scene of the accident, which was behind the Shetland Properties building.

Lynch said that diving teams from both the Billerica and Salem, Mass., police departments were on hand at the scene of the accident. A crowd of about 100 watched as the safety officials searched for Braciska, said Sutton.

Piano/Organ Four Day SALE On Bankruptcy Lot

BANKRUPTCY BUYOUT PRODUCES WHOLESALE PRICES

The Music Mall recently purchased the stock of a major piano/organ dealer which was going out of business.

We'd like to hold on to these keyboards and sell them at regular retail prices, but we can't afford to keep our stock this high for very long. So for four days we're passing our savings along to you.

PRODUCT QUALITY FACTORY GUARANTEED

This special opportunity to purchase new pianos and organs at below wholesale prices begins Thursday, May 17 at The Music Mall in the Chelmsford Mall.

All the instruments carry full factory warranties. You will not find a better buy anywhere.

There're only a few of these keyboards, so we will be selling them on a first come first serve basis. No orders or "rainchecks" will be taken at these prices. (Note: dealers will be taken by appointment only.)

There will be a charge for delivery and set-up. We don't expect our professional movers to work wholesale.

A UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY FROM A UNIQUE STORE

The Music Mall provides a full line of services to satisfy your every musical need. We'll even special order sheet music for you. And we offer a lesson program designed for everyone.

Couple these extras with the low prices and you have a one time opportunity you won't see around the Merrimack Valley for a long time.
